More Snow Is In Forecast For Missouri

KANSAS CITY (AP)—More snow is reported on the way for the south, east and central sections of Missouri.

Warm moist air from the Gulf is reported streaming northward over the top of a dome of cold air. The weatherman forecasts light snow in the southeast and extreme south this afternoon with snow in the east and south tonight and in the south and central areas Friday.

Wednesday's storm left the state with welcome precipitation. West Plains, for instance, reported 2.58 inches; Farmington 1.96; Cape Girardeau 1.91 and Malden 1.49.

The rain at Cape Girardeau was the heaviest one-day fall there since last July 17. The total fall there for the past two weeks is now 4.81.

The immediate effect of the latest storm was bad roads and high winds. Roads were ice-covered and slick generally in the northern two-thirds of the state.

A thin film of ice and sleet covered routes in the St. Louis area. The snow stopped there yesterday morning only to be followed by sleet and then rain. Packed snow and ice covered northwest Missouri roads and the highway department said motorists would find all routes slippery.

Some of the moisture and snow cover reports this morning included: Butler .39 and 9 inches; Columbia .48 and 6; Joplin .30 and 6; Rolla .55 and 5.

Fulton had an inch and a quarter of snow followed by rain giving that city .26 of an inch of precipitation. Macon reported .35 inches of snow.

Temperatures by morning are expected to range from zero to 10 above northwest to 15-20 southeast. The highs Friday will be generally in the 20s.

Readings this morning included 9 at Maryville 10 at Butler and 11 at St. Joseph.

Inquiry Into Wreck Cause Is Started

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Santa Fe Railway Co. has started its inquiry into the wreck of its passenger train, the San Diego, in east Los Angeles Jan. 22. The inquiry is expected to last several days and a spokesman said no announcements will be made on its progress.

The wreck took 30 lives.

Memo From Nature

Sometimes it's easy to forget that certain streets are on a hill until smooth, chainless tires on slick snow prove the point. Quite a bit of reminding occurred yesterday and today.

The temperature at 7 a.m. was 18, 22 at 1 p.m., and 23 at 2 p.m. Snowfall Tuesday and that night three inches. Moisture content .29 inch.

The temperature one year ago today, high 30, low 24, with 29 inch of moisture; two years ago, high 64, low 35; and three years ago, high 57, and low 38.

School Cut Off By Snow

Wind-Whipped Drifts Maroon Teachers, Pupils and Parents Inside Albuquerque

ALBUQUERQUE (AP)—Thirty-four teachers, parents and pupils this morning were marooned within the Albuquerque city limits by a wind-whipped snow which piled drifts 10 feet high.

After a night trapped in the Hawthorne school, Principal William Nabors said the children and teachers were "holding up well—we're just tired is all."

Although the storm had abated this morning, 8-to-10-foot drifts were still piled around the school. Cars were stuck in the drifts.

Army trucks made it through early today, leaving 50 blankets for the marooned adults and children.

The Hawthorne school, with an enrollment of 530, found itself isolated within a city because of its location. It's in the extreme north-east section of Albuquerque in an area of widely scattered subdivisions, and is near the base of the towering Sandia Mountains.

Winds to 62 miles an hour slammed the snow off the mountains and piled it into drifts around the school after many of the children had left. Parents of others battled the storm to retrieve their children. Some were forced to remain.

About 26 children, cut off by the storm, were taken into neighboring homes for the night. Others spent the night on the school floor.

Nabors said the Red Cross had told him it was trying to get through with food for those still inside the school this morning.

Keeping watch at the school were Principal William Nabors, eight parents, 19 teachers and two custodians.

"The neighbors across the street have been wonderfully cooperative," said the principal.

"Between 4 and 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, many parents managed to drive here and take 40 other children home. Then the storm closed in. Soon you couldn't get a car any closer than three blocks away."

"Later in the evening the neighbors across the street and in the next block down began telephoning and offering assistance. They took most of the children, fed them and bedded them down. They began bringing in hot food, so we were well taken care of."

In a telephone interview, Nabors said snow had drifted up to the windows on the west side of the one-story, 20-room building, and a stiff east wind was blowing snow so hard that "visibility still was zero" early this morning.

Nabors said drifts had piled up "at least six feet deep" around a city bus which had stopped to pick up children on a regular run to their homes. "At least 20 autos are stranded in front of the school," he said.

The gas heating system was holding up well, the principal said, and the children were "comfortably bedded down on cots in the teachers lounge and clinic."

Hinlein, Officer Kidwell Challenge Him--

Arthur Godfrey Stirs Sedalia's Wrath With Criticism on Radio

Arthur Godfrey, radio and television star, apparently has aroused the wrath of Sedalians by a criticism uttered during his Wednesday morning broadcast to the effect that a stunt performed by a policeman on Operation SWAP Sunday night was degrading to the police force.

Officer Leroy Kidwell, who hands out tickets for parking violations, was called out of bed that night by Police Chief Edgar Neighbors, who was at the March of Dimes benefit show on KDRO-TV when someone offered $5 to the police fund if Kidwell would allow a pie to be thrown in his face.

Kidwell said he would be glad to do it, but only if the donation was raised to at least $50. More donations poured in until the amount reached $65, and the pie was thrown.

Godfrey said he felt that such a stunt tended to degrade the police force.

Kidwell said that same afternoon, "I'd go to New York and smash a pie in his (Godfrey's) face if he would be a good sport and let all the money go to the Polio Foundation, but part of it would have to be sent to my own Pettis County chapter."

Referring to the stunt Sunday night, Kidwell said, "It was in good clean fun and for a good purpose. Personally, I feel the people contributed it in the same way."

On Thursday morning, Milton Hinlein, president of KDRO-TV, sent the following letter air mail, special delivery to Godfrey at CBS headquarters in New York City:

"Dear Mr. Godfrey: 'Unfair!' 'Sedalia and KDRO-TV stand condemned without an appeal, because my access to the public is, most naturally, greatly limited.' 'I have been defending you personally on the grounds that there are two sides to most every question and that handling the average ego of people who appear before the camera is no man's play-toy. It is a job for a super-fine diplomat.'"

"And now this from you! 'It was right on hand when the pie was thrown in the Sedalia policeman's face on the KDRO-TV March of Dimes program. I place before you the fact the policeman in question was only too happy to bring himself to the trade area's attention as a human being willing to take punishment as well as to dish it out. That particular policeman was one of a contingent delegated to hand out parking tickets during the last two years. It wasn't fun for him, it was a job. His job. He was the goat. And he is paid little enough for it. And so it was his pleasure to show the city and the surrounding area that he was human and could smile on the receiving end.'"

"Police can and should inspire fear in the hearts of criminals. But too many people, Mr. Godfrey, want them to inspire fear in the hearts of good citizens and children."

"Guns are still a heritage of the Middle West and many of us have seen these same men, who have the humor and humility to laugh in a good cause, use a gun to advantage when the going requires it. Our police are no laughing stock, sir, but are a fine lot of boys who can take as well as give."

"Cordially yours, 'Milton J. Hinlein, 'President.'"

Counting Polio Dimes—A polio container was put aside when a real drive for Polio Dimes was started on suggestion of Capt. Donald W. Hargreaves, 2422 Colonial Drive, and spurred on by Miss Gwen Griffith, 520 East Fifth, employee at the Jockey Club on South Limit. If any customers happened to use "off color" words, it cost a dime. But instead many just outwardly paid up "in full" and started row after row of dimes to be pasted on the counter of the bar. In the above picture, ripping the dimes up from the sticky tape and counting them, are, left to right: Lynn Eberting, 1422 South Kentucky, manager; Jack Austin, 1427 South Sneed, owner of the Jockey Club; John E. Craig, 106 West Second, assisting Scott Webber, 1720 West Fourth, the Pettis County chairman of March of Dimes. They collected $152.90 in the drive at the Jockey Club. (Staff photo).

Ike-Eden Confab Closes

They Issue Joint Summary Statement And 'Declaration Of Washington'

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Eden have endorsed new measures to prevent another Israeli-Arab conflict, warned Red China against "aggressive expansion" and cautioned neutrals about Communist "entitlement."

Climaxing a three-day conference on global cold war issues, the President and the British Prime Minister issued a summary statement and a "Declaration of Washington" laying down the principles and general aims of their policies.

The tone of both documents was firm, reflecting the dashed hopes born at last July's summit conference for an end to the cold war.

"The emphasis, nevertheless, was on peace. Eden and Eisenhower rejected any thought that the East-West conflict should 'be resolved by force.'"

"We shall never initiate violence," they said.

The joint statement frankly acknowledged "some differences" persist in the two governments' policies in the Far East.

If specific and concrete actions were decided upon, there was no announcement of it. The statement and the policy declaration amounted in general to a reaffirmation of established policies.

Eden and Eisenhower voiced a determination to try to stabilize the Middle East. They said a settlement between Israel and the Arab states "is the most urgent need" for that strife-ridden region.

They accused Russia of having "increased the risk of war" through the sale of Communist arms to Egypt by Czechoslovakia and declared that "our purpose is to mitigate that risk."

They directed that the French government be invited to take part in three-power talks to chart possible actions under a 1950 declaration by the three nations. That document pledged joint action in the event force is used or threatened in Palestine.

Norway May Wait For Ruling Before Acting on Red Demand

OSLO, Norway (AP)—Norway apparently will wait for a ruling from her courts before taking action on Russia's mildly worded demand for the release of 14 Soviet fishing boats seized as poachers by the Norwegian navy.

Broadway-Limit Traffic Light

Motorists who encounter the Broadway and Limit intersection are indicating heightened interest in a recommendation by Traffic Engineer Feuchter to the Citizens Traffic Advisory Commission that the latter request of the State Highway Department installation of a stop and go light at that location.

This was not the worst intersection for accidents during 1935. Six occurred there. There were ten at Broadway and Ohio. These figures do not take into account the number of near misses, nor apoplectic close shaves.

Something has been added to the hazards at this Highway 50 and Highway 65 intersection now that Limit Avenue is improved from Broadway to Third Street. Whereas this spot heretofore catered to traffic in T-formation, it has now become four directional adding to the confusion of drivers. The flicker light there is outmoded.

Although north and southbound traffic across Highway 50 must stop before proceeding, eastbound traffic moving from Highway 65 has a tendency to diminish visibility. The driver of a northbound car attempting to cross 50 does so at his peril. Added to this hazard is the practice of 50 westbound cars cutting the corner for a south turn onto 65. There are no lane markings. A car nose stuck out too far is going to get it. This corner-turning sets up another hazard for eastbound through traffic coming down the dip.

The safest movement is made by eastbound 50 traffic turning right onto 65 and heading south. Even these cars, however, encounter westbound 50 autos turning left onto 65 southbound. Sometimes they move in parallel position with one or the other jockeying for the lead on the wider pavement before reaching the two-lane limitation farther south of the intersection.

Perhaps a case may be made against the proposal for a stop and go light at Broadway and Limit by more engineer-minded traffic experts but until then we are of the opinion some more effective light regulation at this point will serve a decidedly good safety purpose especially in preparation for the accelerated Lake of the Ozarks traffic starting this spring.

An early opinion on this, one way or another, by the State Highway Department is desirable.

Drew Pearson Says—

MacArthur-HST Feud Will Blaze Again

WASHINGTON — The Douglas MacArthur and Harry Truman feud is going to blaze into headlines again — thanks to Life Magazine.

Life editors have the advantage of reading Harry Truman's memoirs before anyone else and have been using this to their own advantage. Mr. Truman's first installment on the Marshall mission to China was answered by Life in the same issue in which it was published.

In addition, Life editors slipped Gen. Douglas MacArthur an advance copy of Truman's memoirs which refer to him.

This particular installment is not due to be published until late February, but MacArthur has already written a 5,000-word stinging rejoinder — courtesy of Life editors and his ghost-writer, Gen. Courtney Whitney.

The MacArthur answer is so hot that Life circulation experts are ordering around a half million extra copies.

Dulles' One Friend

Reason why John Foster Dulles isn't getting as much bi-partisan policy as he wants is that he pins everything on one Democrat, the much-loved elder statesman from Georgia — Senator George. However, a lot of other Democrats don't relish the way George walked out on the Democratic party on tax reduction or other domestic matters last year when the White House invited him to lunch.

That's why George's influence on foreign affairs with other Democrats has diminished.

In handling the Bulgarian-Eisenhower letter exchange, for instance, Secretary Dulles did consult Senator George. But he ignored other Democratic leaders completely.

At 11 a. m. Saturday, after release of the two letters already had been decided, Congressman John McCormack of Massachusetts, Democratic leader of the House, telephoned Congressman James Richards of South Carolina, chairman of the House foreign affairs committee. Richards is supposed to know what the score is at the State Department just as much as George, but he didn't know. He hadn't been informed.

"I don't know anything more than what I read in the newspapers," he told McCormack caustically.

Auto Dealers' Gripe

Ten thousand "typically American" small businessmen met in the nation's capital this week in the opening gun of a pitched battle for survival.

They're the owners of the nation's auto agencies and, like thousands of other small businessmen around the country, they find themselves today on the "brink" of an uncertain future.

Guest Editorial—

ST. PAUL PIONEER PRESS: Longevity and Genius. Dr. Theodore Van Dellen, medical columnist on the Chicago Tribune, says many of our literary and other prodigies who died young might have lived to a reasonable old age had modern medical knowledge and facilities been available in an earlier day. He mentions Keats, who died at 26; Robert Louis Stevenson at 44, and Lord Byron at 36.

We have some very good literary lights in the younger brackets today, and the chances are they will improve as they grow older. The columnist wonders, however—as do many of the rest of us—whether these great writers of the past would have gone on to greater heights had they lived longer or would have gone stale. It's an interesting question, but the world has enjoyed the later years of George Bernard Shaw; Count Leo Tolstoy, Conan Doyle, Oliver Wendell Holmes (father and son), Henry W. Longfellow and many others in literature; Einstein and others in science as well as a distinguished company of elder statesmen who have had a great deal to offer in competent and timely advice in their later years.

A question which the doctor has raised by inference, however, persists in many minds. Did nature speed up the productions of some of the younger geniuses to compensate for a shorter life span, or did they by overwork and neglect shorten their lives? Or did they themselves realize that man's average life span was far from the biblical three-score years and ten (which it actually is now) and that it behooved them to get busy passing on their cherished thoughts to the world early?

The auto dealers didn't sit around twiddling their thumbs and moaning, however. They worked through their powerful organization, the National Automobile Dealers Association.

"We're disturbed about the profit situation," explained W. L. Carpenter, a small Ford-Mercury dealer from Pontotoc, Miss., who sells about 175 cars a year. Carpenter employs 18 people, including his son-in-law, and grosses about $500,000 a year.

"We're not making any money," Carpenter says, which is why attendance at this year's NADA convention is so much greater than usual. "When we were making money there wasn't much reason to go to conventions."

Sentiment among the dealers is aimed at the manufacturers, the chief gripe being over production of new cars. The dealers want output cut back to a reasonable level, so some of the sales pressure can be lifted. Over production, they feel, leads to factory pressure on them to sell an impossible quota of cars, also to "bootlegging," and to inability to give adequate service.

"We're here in Washington to demonstrate our power," agreed Carpenter. "These manufacturers don't like the NADA. We just want to show 'em we have some backing."

Government Regulation? ? ?

Asked whether he thought government action would be needed, Carpenter answered "No."

"I think the industry can solve the problem, when the manufacturers and dealers get around a table and talk in a way that will be profitable to both parties."

"Of course, we're not having much trouble down south. Mostly it's up north. We're not having any trouble with the Ford Company, either. In our state we elect delegates every year from among the Ford dealers to go up to Detroit and talk with the factory people."

In another corner of the Sheraton-Park hotel lobby two Chicago dealers were talking. They were Jerry Cizek, a Chrysler agent, and M. F. McCarthy, who sells International Trucks. Their feelings echoed Carpenter's.

"The industry should solve the problem without government intervention. It'll be better for the dealer, and better for the industry."

However, Cizek and McCarthy agreed that if the industry doesn't act, NADA will turn to the government. They were both glad their convention was being held in Washington, partly because NADA is making an impression on Congress.

A small minority of the dealers isn't alarmed about over production and bootlegging. They are the second-hand dealers, typified by Thornton Anderson of Philadelphia's Mayfair Motors. "We like it fine the way it is," quipped Anderson. "The more new cars are sold, the more used ones there are, and the cheaper they are. "As for bootlegging," Anderson said, "there isn't 10 per cent of the bootlegging that there was a year ago. The new-car dealers under cut us now. You can't make a dime bootlegging any more."

Note — Most of the dealers aren't sorry they got into the auto business. "It gets into your bloodstream," explained one, "and you can't get out."

Field of Neglect

In 1944 and 1949, Mrs. Helen West Heller received a prize from the Library of Congress for her distinguished woodcuts, which are also displayed in the Smithsonian Institute and in several big American museums and college collections around the country. She had published her first book of woodcuts in 1938. She was 93 years old when she died — in New York's Bellevue Hospital. Her body remained unclaimed for ten days while city welfare agencies tried to locate members of her immediate family. She had none. She had been sick and living alone on meager public relief in a run-down section of the city.

The plight of American artists who cannot sell enough works at high enough prices to provide for their old age has seldom been seriously discussed even by the great foundations and institutions concerned with promoting America's cultural growth. The bitter fate of a recognized American artist who died lonely, sick, helpless and penniless, in a country where her works remain cherished should at least serve to stab a conscience here and there and produce not tears, but actions.

"It's a Road---It Just Hasn't Been Used Much"

Here's How Doctor Explains Disease to a Heart Victim

EDITOR'S NOTE: The world-famous specialist who is counseling President Eisenhower on his heart spells out, in case history style, what happens to you if you are hit by a heart attack. This is the second of three articles written for NEA Service and (your newspaper) in connection with National Heart Month.

By PAUL D. WHITE, M. D.
(Distributed by NEA Service)

Dr. Jones belongs to the growing number of physicians who believe that a patient should have enough understanding of his heart disease and its treatment and enough confidence in his physician to follow recommendations wholeheartedly.

That is why Dr. Jones took time in the very beginning to explain fully what was wrong and what should be done. His explanation to Mr. Brown was extremely detailed, but in essence here's what he told him:

"Actually, the heart attack you had is not primarily a disease of the heart. It is really a condition of the arteries — the coronary arteries — that supply the heart muscle with blood."

"Over a period of years, these coronary arteries were setting the stage for your heart attack through the gradual development of arteriosclerosis — a form of arteriosclerosis. Arteriosclerosis involves a thickening as well as a hardening of the artery walls."

"As a result, less and less blood gets through. Certain sections of these arteries are more affected than other sections. Some persons go through life with abnormal coronary arteries and never know they have anything wrong. They die of something else—old age, or perhaps they get run over."

"In your case, Mr. Brown, a blood clot formed in the narrowest part of one of the branches of a coronary artery. This clot (or thrombus) blocked the blood supply to an important part of the heart muscle, which began to ache — and that is what we call a heart attack, or coronary thrombosis."

"The ache continued while the portion of the heart muscle — perhaps the size of a walnut — that was cut off from its supply of oxygen-carrying blood continued to struggle along in its work with the rest of the heart. Gradually the fibers of this small portion of the muscle died and the pain slowly went away."

"Now this damage is really a bruise. It is like an abscess without any germs or infection and it has to be taken care of."

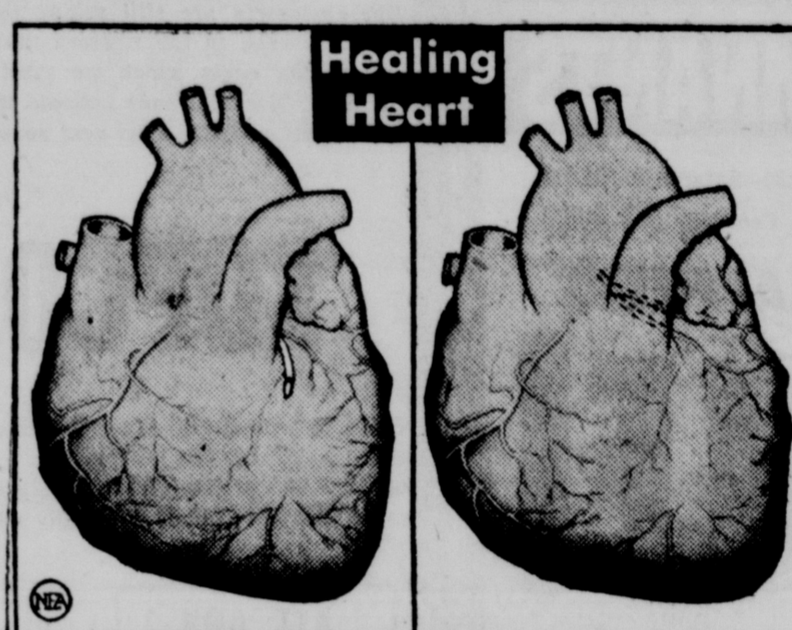

"Your body has to send 'wrecking cells' to clear away the dead tissue before the tissue can heal and form a strong scar. The process takes about a week or longer and we always expect a degree or so of fever with it."

"At the end of the first week you may feel perfectly well; but until a scar forms and toughens you must remain at complete rest — physically and mentally — to avoid a rupture of this weak spot in the muscle wall."

"During the second week there still will be no strength to your scar at first. That is why you must remain quiet for another two or three weeks, although we will prop you up to eat and you can be lifted at times into a chair."

"By the end of the first month the scar will probably begin to contract. During the second month it should become firm and the new blood channels should become wider and adequate to carry ample blood to nourish the heart muscle still alive."

"As with any kind of healing process, some people mend faster

FOUR DAYS AFTER attack of coronary thrombosis, white cells are beginning to clear away dead tissue. Scar tissue is beginning to form at edges of damaged area (below clot).

EIGHT WEEKS or so later, tough scar tissue has formed. Patient begins to resume activities. He must keep his weight down and avoid severe mental and physical strain.

than others. But if all goes well, with ordinary luck and care three to four months' time is enough to get you fully back in the swing of things again — and that means back to your job."

Dr. Jones explained to Mr. Brown and to his wife that a firm, well-healed scar may cause no trouble for the remainder of a long life. But he knew, too, that optimism can be overcome and lead to overconfidence and carelessness.

Only in the minority of cases is a heart attack fatal, usually within the first few hours or days. Eighty per cent or more survive their first heart attack and most of them recover fully enough to enjoy a good many years of productive activity.

But no two persons are exactly alike. Some may require extra oxygen for several days at first. Many may be helped by anticoagulant drugs, but these drugs may be considered unnecessary for some or even dangerous for others. A competent physician will know when to give medicine and when

Dr. Jordan Says—

Some Coffee Drinkers Get Disturbing Effects

By Edwin P. Jordan, M. D.

Mrs. H. asks what the effects would be of drinking three or four cups of coffee around 7 in the morning and another two cups at breakfast, around 9 or 10.

Before embarking on a discussion of the effects of coffee in general, it may be said that this is quite a lot of coffee to drink so close together but the effects will vary from person to person. Some people seem to get away with this amount without any apparent harm and in others so much seems definitely undesirable.

The active drug in coffee is known as caffeine. The usual cup of strong coffee contains enough caffeine to produce a definite drug effect, though possibly it is somewhat lessened by the fact that in the coffee the caffeine is combined with some other substances. Coffee, therefore, acts as a stimulant which increases temporarily mental and physical energy, and acts to some extent to relieve mental and muscular fatigue. Many people drink coffee also for its comforting and relaxing effect.

Caffeine as a drug is well known as a brain stimulant. It is used sometimes to combat some of the harmful effects of acute poisoning with morphine or other depressing drugs.

It stimulates breathing and is used by doctors for this purpose in certain cases of asthma and other disorders of breathing.

Caffeine acts also on the heart and the blood vessels. It tends to dilate some of the blood vessels so that more blood may flow through and it is a direct heart stimulant leading towards maintaining the blood pressure or even raising it somewhat.

Another effect of caffeine is to stimulate the formation of urine. Caffeine and its chemical relatives have therefore been used for a long time to increase urinary flow when that was desirable.

Likewise, ordinary doses of caffeine act directly on most of the muscles causing them to contract more powerfully and to become tired less easily. These are the principal actions of the drug caffeine, although it affects to a lesser degree many other functions of the body.

Coffee (or other liquids containing caffeine) usually produce little or no harm if consumption is moderate. Unfortunately, nervous people are the ones most likely to drink too much and it is in them

As Sedalia Sees It—

Mass Deception May Be Painless, But Dangerous

by Joseph A. Dear
Democrat-Capital Washington
Correspondent

WASHINGTON—The little lie and the whopping half truth, both techniques of mass deception, may do us in even if Communism doesn't.

Sectional tolerance of anti-social behavior varies. A majority of the citizens in some cities have shown themselves insensitive and indifferent to municipal corruption. Moon-shining gets the nod in other areas. And it is difficult to escape the conclusion that murder passes as nothing more than high misdeed in one part of Kentucky. At least the sympathy is always for the living — the accused, that is.

So it isn't surprising that one binding tie of the Republic is merely a minimum standard of acceptable dishonesty. The best paid practitioners of the art of deceiving without lying may be the promoters of the ultra-automatic potato peeler (custom deluxe model without a handle) is one thing, and the adaptation of this technique by the government is something else again. The first is a fun-loving scramble for dollars, which can be justified if the peeler peels. There isn't anything fun-loving about a scramble for power, and that's what politics is. Also, it's difficult to evaluate government policy, even one that obviously is skinning us alive.

But to get down to cases: The best example of the whopping half truth involves Secretary of State Dulles and the policy of deterrence. In essence, this policy is nothing more than an announcement of our willingness to employ our thermonuclear might. By saying we would use it, we deter the communist bloc from undertaking new aggression.

But that's only half the story. For we too are deterred. The Russians have A-bombs and H-bombs, and the means of delivery. The developing new electronic interception system may afford increased protection. But it is generally accepted that our enemy has the capability to all but destroy us.

In short, it is almost certain that the State can no longer perform one of its essential functions — that of protecting its citizens.

The "little lie" technique is used regularly. During hearings on the Dixon-Yates contract, ex-Budget Director Hughes testified he had not known his principal adviser, Wenzell, was also dealing with the Atomic Energy Commission. Chairman Strauss of AEC said his outfit did not know that Wenzell was working with the Budget Bureau. Strauss knew Wenzell only as an official of the First Boston Corporation, which was to arrange the financing of the Dixon-Yates plant. AEC was to buy the output of the proposed plant. But just fancy. AEC didn't know Wenzell was a consultant to the Budget Bureau. And the Budget Bureau didn't realize he met with AEC in behalf of First Boston.

Secretary Dulles, without batting an eyelash, said he knew nothing about the leak of the Yalta papers to the New York Times. A Times reporter had personally requested the documents from Dulles, who had then called in Assistant Secretary for Public Affairs McCordle. Dulles told the Times man McCordle would handle the matter. And yet, after that, Dulles found himself able to say he had no idea how The Times got the documents.

The Republicans have no monopoly on the techniques of mass deception. Ex-Defense Secretary that injury from caffeine is most likely.

When susceptible people do drink too much of a caffeine-containing beverage, they may become excessively nervous, develop pounding of their hearts, headache, sleeplessness, trembling, and digestive disturbances. Generally, such unpleasant symptoms can be quickly abolished by cutting down or eliminating the amount taken.

Louis Johnson came, a cropper when he tried the technique. Johnson, whose economies squeezed blood from the Pentagon, boasted of our ability to stop the Reds cold on an instant's notice. That was on the eve of Korea. After the attack, he was E-Secretary of Defense.

Unfortunately, retribution rarely is that swift. And unfortunately, too, retribution is apt to be on a massive scale. Korea was much more painful for those who fought there than it was for Johnson.

But most of the time, the little lie and the whopping half truth are painless. Indeed, often they must seem more pleasant than the truth. But that doesn't excuse the government's reliance on these shoddy techniques.

While firemen were fighting a blaze at the home of Charles L. McCloskey, 507 West Seventh, Sunday Feb. 1, Dr. Reinhold Fischer fell on an icy walk, receiving a slight concussion. At the time, he was helping carry out some furniture. Loss from the fire was estimated in excess of $2,500.

'Live' TV Shows Preferred; Filmed Programs 'Boring'

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (U)—The other morning as I was going to work — a bit late, for the first time that day — my eye was caught by my daughter.

She was lying flat on the floor working over her post-breakfast bottle. She was staring at our television screen showing a grown-up-but-kiddie-looking fellow who himself was sucking at an imitation milk bottle whose theoretical contents were visibly lowered as he said something like this:

"All right, kiddies, it's milk time. Let's go now. Not too fast, but—"

Well, I simply stood there fascinated. I was swept by awe and fear of the art of advertising. I wondered how soon my daughter, having been sold on the virtues of milk, would start worrying about deodorants.

Somehow, clover-sweet as she is at 2½ years old, I hugged the idea that Tracy Ann, my daughter, would learn femininity from her mother, my wife. I don't want my child to learn delicacy from an ad man's fear pitch.

What is the impact of television on the average family? What is right and what is wrong with television up to now?

Here are a few off-the-cuff observations—some personal, some not— of the new one-eyed monster in our living room:

My daughter likes to identify Pinky Lee, Lassie, Rin-Tin-Tin, the Lone Ranger and other staple childhood fodder — she likes Ollie the dragon but is suspicious of Howdy Doody. Then usually she walks away, having survived the shock of recognition, and returns to her old friends, her toys.

Ancient cartoons with dubbed-in voices bore her within 30 seconds, and she walks away. She also will do this to canned meat if it is put on her plate. She has an unerring appetite for freshness, and likes "Captain Kangaroo" because it is alive.

Both her father and mother also will refuse to follow canned family situation comedies because they are unreal and tiresome, and because canned laughter doesn't make them feel very jolly. Most of their friends who can read without moving their lips feel the same way.

Tracy Ann and her parents enjoy — sometimes more than the show they carry — bright, tuneful illustrated commercials. We hum 'em in our house.

A live show stirs us more than a filmed show, and we'll rove the dial to get one that is alive. There are exceptions — but they only prove the rule.

One of the things that destroys realism most is to have an artist perform a role, then step out of character and immediately make a sales pitch.

The duty of the artist in television today is to gain an audience. To ask him to go on from there is to demean both himself and the product he is required to plug. Both are needlessly cheapened.

Commercialism is necessary in television, but not in that manner. It will die out as more artists make more money, can afford to be more independent, and the realization grows that there are better

Tourney Into 2nd Round

Lions Play Reaches Quarter-finals Mark With Four Games Scheduled Tonight

The Lions basketball tournament moved into the quarter finals to-night with four games scheduled to be played starting at 6:30 p.m. Four first round games were played Wednesday night in which four teams were eliminated.

The Wednesday night games saw the Superior Cleaners of Warrensburg defeating Otterville 88 to 40; Concordia VFW defeated Hortor Plumber of Sedalia 63-48; Whiteman AFB defeated Pilot Grove 73-47; and Algoa Farms sunk Windsor 68-41.

Superior Cleaners had the game tied up after the first quarter and put the clincher to it in the second. In the first stanza the Cleaners put through 20 points while Otterville collected 12 then in the second they added 23 to 6 to lead at half-time 43-18. Otterville never warmed up until the fourth scoring only six to Warrensburg 25 in the third, and did put on a spirit in the final period to score 16 points to their opponents 20.

Parker tallied seven goals and four free throws for 18 points for Warrensburg and Lobb was second with eight goals for 16 points. For Otterville, Brodersen tallied 7-3 for 17 points and second high man was J. Gochenour with 1-3 for five.

Algoa Farms coasted to an easy victory over Windsor. The boys from Jefferson City opened the game scoring 20 points to nine in the first quarter, tallied 14 to 15 in the second for a halftime lead of 34-24. Then in the third quarter playing tight basketball they added 15 to eight and in the final quarter 19-9 to take the big end of the 68-41 score.

P. Barnes was the high scorer for Algoa with 10-4 for 24 points and F. Winn next with eight goals and 16 points. For Windsor scoring was by Anderson with five and two for 12 points and Eaton with five goals for 10 points.

Concordia was consistent in its team scoring through the entire game while Hortor Plumber put on the flash in the opening stanza only to fall to pieces in the second quarter and never recovered the remainder of the game.

Hortor poured in the points in the first quarter getting seven goals and six free throws for 20 points while Concordia was satisfied with 17. Then in the second period Concordia repeated their 17 point scoring while Hortor's picked up but six. The halftime score on the board gave Concordia 34 points to the Sedalia aggregation 26. In the third Concordia tallied 15 and Hortor's 12, with the final quarter points on the score board 14 for Concordia to 10 for Hortor's.

S. Lampe was high for Concordia with 7-9 for 23 points. R. Bruening 8-2 for 18 points. For Hortor's Munsterman had 9-1 for 19 and Homan their standby came up with only one goal and six free throws for eight points.

In the final game the high scoring of the tournament came to the top as Moore of the Whiteman Air Force Base showered 11 goals through the basket and four free throws for 26 points, in defeating Pilot Grove 73-47.

Scoring in the first quarter was evident of what team was the strongest as the Base aggregation run up 25 while Pilot Grove collected 15 and in the second period the base scored 16 to 13 for a 41-28 halftime lead. In the third period Whiteman AFB scored 17 points to six and in the final played around with 15 to 13 points.

Resteria of the Base was second high for his team with 9-3 for 21 points. Pilot Grove scoring went to Wesselman with 7-4 for 18 and Odelman with 6-3 for 15 points.

Winners of the games Thursday night will go against each other Friday night in the semi-finals with the finals and the third-fourth place game to be played Saturday night.

Unique Shortstop Elimination Race Looms in Yankee Camp

NEW YORK (AP)—A shortstop elimination contest without precedent in the major leagues will take place in the New York Yankees' spring training camp at St. Petersburg, Fla., when the American League champions launch preparations for the 1956 baseball season, late this month.

Eight candidates will compete for the berth held so long by Phil Rizzuto, one of the greatest of all Yankees. The list includes three rookies. They are Jerry Lumpe, who batted .301 at Birmingham and was the Southern Ass'n's all-star shortstop; Woody Held, who had 18 home runs and drove in 87 runs at Denver; and Tony Kubek, a fine looking prospect from Quincy, Ill., who batted .334 and led the Three-Eye league in total hits. Kubek, only 20, is not on the Yankee roster, but is held in high esteem by the Yankee front office. A well built lad, Kubek stands 6-3, wallowed 34 doubles and 14 homers and drove in 81 runs last year.

The other shortstop candidates include Jerry Coleman, Billy Hunter, Billy Martin, Gil McDougald, and of course, Rizzuto. Lumpe, 22, is the lad Charlie Dressen, Washington manager, insisted be included in a proposed deal with the Yankees last summer. Held, 23, has one of the finest arms in the business. Kubek, the dark horse of the field, is the youngest General Manager George Weiss told Casey Stengel not to include in any trade. The list of promising youngsters bidding for spots on the Yankee club include catchers Lou Berberet and Johnny Blanchard; infielders Buddy Carter, Bobby Richardson and Marv Throneberry; outfielders Lou Skizas, Whitey Herzog, Bob Martyn and Dick Tietze; and Pitchers Jim Coates, Ralph Terry, Jim De Palo, Jim O'Reilly and Jim Pignatello.

Throneberry, a brother of the Boston Red Sox outfielder, gets a chance for the regular first base job on the strength of an impressive slugging record at Denver. His batting average was only .275 but he wallowed a league high of 36 home runs and drove in 117 runs. He is only 22.

Coates, a 6-4, 23-year-old right-hander, is probably the best regarded among the five pitching newcomers. He had a 13-8 record at Birmingham, turned in a noteworthy 2.77 earned run average and led the Eastern League with 186 strikeouts in 185 innings.

Film Industry Depends On Foreign Sales

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Did you know that—
About 45 per cent of the film industry's take now comes from abroad.
This figure is expected to increase constantly.
Most movies are now made with an eye to the foreign market.
These enlightening facts come from Alfred E. Daff, executive vice president of Universal-International and head of its foreign division. He points up the revolution in film economy.
Once Hollywood was supported by American moviegoers. The foreign receipts were gravy. But now the film industry could not continue on its present basis without the foreign business.
"The movie business would survive—it always has," said Daff. "But the whole setup would have to be changed."
Fortunately, no such calamity as the loss of the foreign market impends. Daff foresees increased prosperity for Hollywood.
"The reason for the increase in foreign receipts is simple," he explained. "Since the war, the standards of living in foreign lands have risen so much that the people now have extra money to spend beyond the cost of food, clothing and shelter. They have more to spend on movies, which are the most universal form of entertainment."
"Fortunately, Americans have a knack of making films that are more popular than anyone else's. With four billion people in the world and 165 million Americans, it is logical that an increasing share of our profits will come from abroad."
How has this changed studio thinking?
"All of our pictures are calculated for their impact on the foreign market as well as the American. Only a few films are made without a foreign appeal. Those are pictures about the American sports and films like Ma and Pa Kettle, which are great here but not as good abroad, with the exception of Australia."
"Likewise we may make films that are not so popular here but liked by foreigners. These include what we call the 'sex-and-sand' films—the romantic adventures."

Arthur Godfrey Says Operation SWAP Stunt Was Too Degrading
Arthur Godfrey, radio and television star, criticized Wednesday morning a stunt used in Operation SWAP in Sedalia Sunday night on KDRO-TV in which Officer Leroy Kidwell, of the police force, agreed to let someone toss a pie in his face if someone would donate at least $50 to the polio fund.
Donations pledged by telephone calls to the station, where the benefit show was conducted on behalf of the March of Dimes, amounted to $65 and the pie was thrown.
Godfrey said he felt that such a stunt tended to degrade the police force.
Wednesday Kidwell said, "I'd go

Cartby and his aides in 1954. Welch became well known to the nation's TV audience then. Now, at the age of 64, he's come here from his home in Walpole, Mass., to serve as a visible, audible guide to the television audience when Omnibus takes up the subject of the Constitution.

"There's a bit of the ham in every trial lawyer," Welch said drily. "But I'm not being integrated into the program as an actor. I have no future as an actor. But I think I have a little future as a lawyer."

Welch impresses you as the ideal person to serve as a guide. Large but not florid, acute but not sharp, he's the sort of lawyer you want to call "Judge" because he shows vast wisdom of human nature.

Character actors will play the many historic roles of the framers and changers of the Constitution. But they won't speak gibb lines cooked up for them on Madison Avenue in 1956. In dramatic flashbacks they will speak the actual words written and spoken by the men who made and developed the Constitution.

The World Today—

Nothing Startling from Eden-Ike Talks

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—Nothing startling—and little that looks positive at this moment—came out of the three-day meeting between President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Eden. The two men issued a joint statement on where they had, and briefed newsmen on what lay behind some of the items in the statement and added some which were not included in it.

It is possible the President and the Prime Minister reached understandings not made public. It is also possible their two governments may in time take action based on the discussions here.

But on the surface, taking the statement and the briefing together, the positive and immediate things done at the conference were few.

In language as strong as any used by the West since the summit conference in Geneva last summer, the two men blasted the Russians for their determination to expand and for their dictatorship over the people they control.

This made it plain they considered the cold war back in full force. Their charges against Russia will, when broadcast to Asians and Iron Curtain peoples, serve as counterpropaganda to Russian charges of Western colonialism.

Middle East: Eisenhower and Eden expressed concern about the possibility of war in the Middle East. But they produced no solution. They agreed to talk with France about possible steps to take.

This might lead to a decision to intervene if war broke out. As a means of keeping peace, the Western Allies will have future talks about such ideas as financial and economic sanctions against an aggressor in the Middle East and the possible use of the American 6th Fleet which operates in the Mediterranean.

No decision was reached on granting Israel's request for arms.

Asia: Red China was warned not to get frisky. The two men said they are "united in our purpose . . . to deter and prevent aggressive expansion by force or subversion." But then, in their statement, they acknowledged they hadn't agreed on how to do it.

Briefing officers said Eisenhower believes he won Eden's agreement to help block United Nations membership for Red China this year.

Europe: Eisenhower and Eden agreed this country and Britain would continue what they've been doing there, such as backing the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, demanding Russia let Germany unite, and so on.

Atomic: The two men simply said they would continue working for the establishment of an international agency for the peaceful development of atomic energy. Briefing officers added the two nations agreed they would not stop testing atomic and hydrogen weapons.

Two Operating Panels of Lake Ozarks Boy Scout Council Meet

Two of the operating committees of the Lake of the Ozarks Boy Scout Council met at California, Mo., last night with 14 men from three districts attending.

Julius Stohr, Council chairman of the organization and extension committee, presided over the meeting of this committee. Plans were made to conduct a sponsorship survey and relationship conference in each district in the spring. Each institutional representative will be contacted.

Captain K. K. Johnson, Jefferson City, council chairman conducted the meeting of the camping and activities committee. It was announced that the Pettis district camporee will be held May 4-6, and he Ozark Council camporee will be held June 2 and 3.

Roy Klein, district chairman of the camping and activities committee, had J. W. Kraus and Maurice Hogan as his guests at the meeting.

Increased Enrollment Creates Need for New Buildings

The Sedalia school bond proposal, to be voted upon in a special election Feb. 7, includes $485,892 to build and equip a new elementary school in West Sedalia. Together with improvements at other schools, this new building will make room for the growing number of children now enrolling in the Sedalia school system. Our school problem in Sedalia is a matter of simple arithmetic—as the school enrollment figures show. Five years ago, our seven elementary grades included under 1,900 pupils. This winter the figure is 2,400. The trend is still continuing, as shown by the number of pre-school age children who will soon enter school. In five years more, enrollment will be 2,800. The new school will relieve pressure where it is greatest, in West Sedalia. During recent years, this area has had the highest rate of growth in the city, and has contributed more than any other to the present overcrowding problem. In addition to its past growth, west Sedalia contains large tracts that are now being built upon, or are scheduled for immediate development. The school board has purchased a tract on the west side of Warren Avenue, between Fifth and Seventh Streets. This site was chosen because it is central to the areas of present rapid growth and the areas of foreseeable future growth. At the same time, it will help prevent future overcrowding at Horace Mann and Mark Twain, which would otherwise swamp those schools beyond any possibilities of expansion at their present sites. Plans for the new school are shown above. It will be a completely modern, one-story structure, with all standard equipment for up-to-date elementary instruction. Building plans take advantage of the natural slope of the land, by providing two floor levels at the north end of the building. The lower level will house the cafeteria, kitchen, boiler, and storage rooms. All classrooms will be on the main floor level. A completely equipped auditorium-gymnasium will be on the south. Funds for the school are earmarked, and cannot be used for any other purpose. Plans for the new school are on display at each of the present elementary schools, and at the high school. All citizens are invited to visit the school nearest them, to inspect the plans, and to discuss them with the school principal. Background for the school improvement proposal is being described in a series of articles in The Democrat-Capital. Problems at the high school will be taken up in forthcoming issues.

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — U.S. border patrol agents, alert for Mexican aliens without entry permits, stopped their car to question an elderly man along a road. Gunman's Bark Is Worse Than His Bite

MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP)—This is a story of a prudent tailor and a would-be gunman whose bark was worse than his bite. A young man walked into Andrew Kamtas' tailor shop, pulled out a gun and said: "Give me your money or I'll kill you." Police said Kamtas opened the cash register and told the gunman to take what was in it—about $2. The tailor then ran out of the store. The thief shouted after him: "Come back or I'll kill you." Kamtas returned. Then the would-be robber left without the money. There are about 20,000 species of birds in the world, about 800 of them in the United States.

Retired Railroad Men Will Hear Retirement Field Representative

The Sedalia Unit of the National Retired Labor Railroad Unions Association will have its speaker on Saturday, Feb. 11, Thomas Keating, field representative of the Railroad Retirement Board.

Retires as Employee of Penney's Store

Miss Hulda Schroeder, an associate of J. C. Penney Co. department store for the last 12 years, retires the first of February under the company's thrift and profit-sharing retirement fund plan, it was announced today by Paul Hedderich, store manager. Miss Schroeder first started working at Penney's Aug. 9, 1943, and since that date has worked in the ready-to-wear department.

The meetings of the local unit are held the second Saturday of each month at the Schneider home on Route 5. This unit was organized by Martin Weyant, who served as president of the Phoenix, Ariz., unit several years. Weyant, a former Sedalian, has returned the past year from Arizona where he has lived for a number of years. He has been a member of the Trainmen's Union for 57 years and joined in Sedalia. This national organization, which involves 20 labor unions, is working to bring about a 15 per cent increase in pensions of retired railroad workers and the widows of railroad employees.

Brother Act

Profitable Tobacco

MARSHALL, N. C. (AP) — Profits from a two-acre tobacco patch have retired the mortgage on the 156-acre farm of Mr. and Mrs. Hilliard Teague in seven years. The Teagues have started building a new brick home, hoping the tobacco profits will again retire the mortgage.

Foreign Dishes Add Variety And Can Be Cooked at Home

The making of a pizza pie is no longer an exotic accomplishment. This housewife serves it to her family regularly along with other European dishes once nearly unknown in this country.

NEW YORK (NEA)—Sick of serving stew and broiled chicken to your family? Want to try your hand at something new and different?

In a growing trend, more housewives are doing just exactly this every day. A matron in Texas gives her family pizza pie. A mother of three in the Deep South gives her family shish-ka-bab for dinner in place of fried chicken. An Irish housewife living in New York tries out lasagna on her family in place of corned beef and Irish tea.

People tend to cling to customs, it's true. But the curiosity about dishes from other countries can be accounted for in several ways. For one, the world is shrinking. For another, it's tiresome to serve the same kind of food day after day. For a third, it's far easier to get the necessary ingredients for new dishes than ever before. And often, it's possible to cut time in recipes by using frozen or canned foods and taking other short cuts.

National origin will continue for some time to play an important part in the food choices of most housewives, according to Paul Sayres of Mount Vernon, New York, one of America's leading food brokers. He's made a study of food preferences in the United States, both for business and for fun.

It's next to impossible, Sayres says, to buy Hungarian salami in Portland, Maine, or Belgian sardines in Albuquerque. That's because Maine has only 87 Hungarians while the Belgian population of New Mexico adds up to a mere 38. So if you've a hankering for salami or sardines and you live in these respective spots, Sayres' advice is to move.

"We have a total of 10,161,168 foreign born living in this country," Sayres says. "And an additional 23,589,485 who have foreign or mixed parentage. The eating habits of these people are directly influenced by the country of their origin."

An Italian would be right at home in either Chicago or New York. Both cities have Italian sections where you can buy olives from wooden barrels, spices, imported macaroni and spaghetti, sausages of all kinds.

But if you're Irish, stay away from Cleveland, where there are only 4,229 Irish-born citizens in the population. New York has 141,723 and Boston has 27,737. In both cities, you can get Irish tea, corned beef, finnan haddie, cabbage and potatoes.

For delicious Swedish dishes, including jellied eels, head cheese, roast pork stuffed with prunes and the famous potato dumplings filled with ham, salt pork and onions (a favorite of the King of Sweden), try Denver, Minneapolis, Boston, New York or Seattle.

But simplest of all, just reach for your cookbook when a yearning for a new and exotic dish comes. You can satisfy your longing for the new and untried foods in Jackson, Mississippi, or Little Rock, Arkansas.

Several Sedalia Lions Attend Slater Club's Anniversary Dinner

The Slater Lions Club held its first anniversary dinner meeting Monday night which several members of the Sedalia Lions Club attended.

Visting Lions were also there from Fayette, Moberly, Brunswick and Marshall. Coach Volney Ashford, Missouri Valley College, was the principal speaker on the program. Ashford, past-president of the Marshall Lions, spoke on "Lionism and Opportunities of This County."

District Gov. E. B. Smith, and Mrs. Smith, Harold Seaberg and Mr. and Mrs. D. Kelly Scruton attended the meeting. Scruton served as toastmaster of the meeting. Gov. Smith made a short talk and presented membership pins to two new members of the club.

South Africa Request Reds to Close Office

CAPETOWN, South Africa (AP)—Foreign Affairs Minister E. H. Louw told Parliament today he has asked the Soviet consul general in Pretoria to close his office and remove all consular staff by March 1.

Louw alleged the consulate general had cultivated contacts with subversive elements and had formed a channel of communication between them and Soviet Russia.

Louw said that confirmation of the consulate's subversive contacts had been provided by Radio Moscow, which had incited African and Indian populations to resist the government in South Africa.

Protestants Will Travel To Moscow

NEW YORK (AP)—An eight-member delegation of American Protestant leaders was named today to make a 10-day visit to Russia in an effort to increase "mutual understanding."

It will be the most broadly representative church contact with religion in Russia in 40 years. The group will go under sponsorship of the National Council of Churches, the nation's largest religious agency. It includes 30 Protestant and Eastern Orthodox denominations with 35½ million members.

The trip, to begin March 9, will be the first part of a two-way exchange, with Russian Orthodox church leaders coming to this country in June.

In announcing plans for the trip, Dr. Eugene Carson Blake of Philadelphia, council president, told a meeting of the council's 250-member governing General Board: "While we cannot be sure that agreement can or should be reached at many points, we do hope that under the guidance of Almighty God this exchange of visits will contribute toward a large measure of understanding and good will." The delegation will include presiding heads of several major American denominations, among them:

The Rt. Rev. Henry Knox Sherrill, presiding bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church; the Rev. Dr. Franklin Clark Fry, president of the United Lutheran Church, and Dr. Blake, administrator of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A.

Also going are prominent officials of the Methodist, American Baptist and Congregational Christian churches, and church specialists in international affairs. One of them, Dr. Paul B. Anderson (Congregational Christian), member of the council's International Affairs Department, speaks Russian.

Argentine Leaders Will Try to Muffle Automobile Horns

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Argentine leaders have embarked on one of their boldest ventures since overthrowing Juan Peron. They will try to muffle automobile horns.

The average Argentine behind the wheel exhibits a devil-may-care independence which makes it a fascinating question whether the government can silence him. There is no traffic light system in Buenos Aires. Authorities tried to install them a couple of years back, but motorists ignored them.

With no traffic light, what do you do speeding into a busy intersection? Just blow the horn, keep going and hope the other fellow stops in time.

Starting April 1, a motorist may be fined "only in cases of extreme emergency and when the driver has no other recourse to avoid an accident." Violators will face license suspensions.

As for the problem at intersections, the government has ordered drivers to observe the widely used rule that the vehicle on your right has the right-of-way.

County Rural Youth Group Holds Meeting

The Pettis County Rural Youth Organization held its monthly meeting at the Oak Grove Community Hall, with Lewis Staples, president, presiding.

with frankfurters. Team the chops with the apples and sauerkraut in a skillet. To serve with the frankfurters, cook the kraut and apples separately.

AMISH KRAUT AND PORK CHOPS

Ingredients: 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, 4 loin pork chops, 1 can (1 pound and 3 ounces) sauerkraut, 2 tablespoons brown sugar, 2 tablespoons finely chopped onion, 1 medium-sized apple.

Method: Melt butter in 10-inch skillet; add pork chops and brown well on both sides. Stack pork chops at one side of pan. Turn sauerkraut (including juice) into skillet; sprinkle with brown sugar and onion; mix well. If apple is red-skinned, peel may be left on; core and dice. Add apple to skillet. Arrange chops at bottom of pan with sauerkraut around them. Cook slowly until pork chops are thoroughly cooked; to test for doneness, cut a small slit near bone—meat should be white. Pork chops will take 30 minutes to 1 hour to cook thoroughly, depending on thickness. Makes 4 servings.

Note: A smaller can of sauerkraut than the one specified may be used. Some of the fat from the chops may be tried out and used instead of the butter or margarine called for, if desired.

SAUCY SAUERKRAUT
Ingredients: 4 medium-sized apples (pared, cored and diced), ½ cup water, ¾ cup sugar, 1 can (1 pound and 3 ounces) sauerkraut (drained).

Method: Mix apples, water and sugar. Cook over moderate heat, stirring occasionally, until apples are soft. Add sauerkraut and heat to serving temperature. Serve with frankfurters and rolls. Makes enough for 8 frankfurters.

Claims Heart Ailments Can Be Cut Down

CHICAGO (AP)—President Eisenhower's chief heart consultant says heart diseases in young and middle aged persons can be reduced markedly "if we go about the task vigorously and adequately."

Dr. Paul Dudley White voiced the prediction at the kickoff banquet of the American Heart Assn.'s 1956 Heart Fund drive last night.

Dr. White also read a message from the President who urged Americans to support the fight against heart diseases which "constitute a foremost national health problem and... post a constant threat to the welfare of almost every American family."

The Boston cardiac specialist said that, thus far, inadequate private and public funds have been provided for the research and training needed to combat the diseases.

Dr. White said a majority of heart patients "not only can work but should work" because "idleness breeds unhappiness and is bad for the health."

In a news conference, Dr. White said, "I personally don't think stress and strain is as important as diet" for patients who recover from heart attacks.

He said it will be up to President Eisenhower to decide whether to run for re-election following a mid-February physical examination and then "knowing in full what the hazards are."

In reply to a question, Dr. White said that, even if the examination shows the President's heart in good condition, "there will be other factors to be considered."

He did not say what these factors are.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Fifteen years ago, John Blackburn, now of Alexandria, had his 17-jewel pocket watch stolen in a Columbus burglary. Yesterday, detectives located the watch in a routine check of pawn shops. Blackburn got it back.

Gets Surprise With Late, Joyous Christmas at Home

Of course it was late, but Robert Jackson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Jackson, 315 North Engineer, had the best Christmas he had ever had last Saturday, when he came home after is discharge from service.

Bobby had thought he would be home for Christmas and his mother, knowing he had always wanted a white Christmas tree, went out and bought the prettiest big white tree she could find. The family, consisting of the mother, father, a brother, Larry, 13, and a sister, Carol Sue, 17, trimmed it and put their wrapped gifts beneath it. This was going to be a truly merry Christmas for the family because Bobby was coming home. Bobby was in Japan, where he had been for six months and before that Korea, but he would be home for Christmas.

Then came the letter that spoiled all the fun and the big preparations. The tree had been put up the week before Christmas and during that week the news came that things hadn't worked out as Bobby had planned. He couldn't get home for Christmas. But he didn't want his family to miss the fun of the gayest season of the year, so he insisted they go ahead and have their Christmas and he would have his when he finally did get home. So the beautiful white tree stayed in the window, waiting for Bob until the mother felt people going by were laughing. They didn't realize that the Christmas tree was up for a reason, so they moved it over in a corner of the room and put all of Bobby's gifts around it. For some strange reason it stayed just as nice and pretty as it had been when it was first put up.

At 1:45 p.m. last Saturday, Bob arrived home. He was happy to see the big white tree just waiting for him and the gifts beneath it.

As the family watched that evening, Bob opened his gifts and then the next day was another celebration. The family had a big Christmas dinner.

Yes, it was a little late, a month and three days late, but it was a wonderful Christmas to Bob, home again to stay after two years in service.

At the completion of these meetings all of the leaders will have completed the construction of a dress for herself.

Points considered by these leaders to date on their project are material and pattern selection, sewing techniques and dress fitting. The lessons will be taken to the extension clubs by these leaders. They will be prepared to conduct similar workshop meetings with their club members.

Home Agent in Training

Mrs. Lorene Wilson entered duty Feb. 1 as home agent in training in Pettis County. After a month's training period she will be assigned to a county in Missouri as county home agent. Mrs. Wilson is a former home agent and is not new to Missouri extension service. We welcome her to Pettis County for her training period.

Garden Meeting

The persons who attended the County Garden Meeting Tuesday, Jan. 31, were brought up to date on garden insect and disease control, methods of fertilization and seed varieties. We were happy to have 50 per cent of the group report they have had their garden soil tested within the past three years.

Prevent Fatigue

Every woman knows that even with many modern conveniences, keeping the house clean means considerable work. One way to save yourself unnecessary fatigue is to use your muscles properly. To relieve strain on back muscles, squat rather than bend when dusting or washing baseboards and when you pick up articles from the floor. Also, maintaining good posture is especially valuable in terms of using the full lung capacity and in preventing muscle strain. Comfortable shoes and garments help you maintain good posture. Another excellent way to avoid excessive fatigue is to take frequent short rest periods. And using long handled tools such as mops and dustpans saves stooping which results in aching muscles.

Cheese—A Tasty Food

There are so many different kinds of cheese on the market and it is such a tasty and versatile food that many homemakers keep a supply on hand to be used at a moment's notice. Cheese, both nippy and mild, is a favorite filling for sandwiches. And its delicious flavor gives nearly any salad that extra something that makes it a special treat. There is almost no limit to the different ways in which you can serve cheese, but if a blue ribbon were being handed out for versatility, one would surely go to cheese sauce. Over toast, rice, hominy, macaroni, potatoes or any of the green vegetables, cheese sauce adds a rich golden color and a flavor that any family would enjoy. This recipe for cheese sauce may be used with the above mentioned dishes: Melt four tablespoons of fat; blend in four tablespoons of flour. Add two cups of milk and one-half teaspoon of salt. Heat and stir until thick. Add one-half pound of cheese shaved thin, and stir until cheese melts. This amount will serve six.

Sedalia Toastmasters Have Meeting Friday

Cecil Owen was in charge of table topics.

Several members of the local club and their wives attended an area meeting at Jefferson City last Monday evening at the Missouri Hotel. Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Austin, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Owen, Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Owen, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Sawyer, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Boicourt and Mr. and Mrs. Norman Bilyeu.

At the meeting Gene Austin gave a talk on "Why People Act Like They Do."

It was decided to have the Toastmasters Area Speech Contest on March 23, at Sedalia with the local club acting as host. The winners from this meeting will then compete in the National Speech Contest at Springfield, Ill. in the early spring.

Diets for Pets

ESTES PARK, Colo. (U)—Humans aren't the only animals troubled with too much fat, heart disease and kidney ailments. Your dog has 'em too. Veterinarians are prescribing diets to make a dog's life longer and happier.

Dr. Mark Morris, 55, who has been experimenting with dog diets since 1928, says his diets have lengthened the lives of dogs from two to four years. That's the equivalent of adding 15 to 30 years to the human life span.

He noticed the startling improvements in dogs whose symptoms indicated special nutrition was necessary. But when the dogs were returned home and the owners disregarded feeding instructions, the symptoms recurred.

Coconut Dessert from Mexico

FLAKY COCONUT makes a sweet and rich Mexican pudding.

By CECILY BROWNSTONE

Associated Press Food Editor

Want a taste of Mexico? Then try this recipe for Coconut Pudding. An acquaintance of ours first ate this dessert in Cafe Tacuba in Mexico City and was fascinated by it. She ordered it steadily during her visit until she felt sure she had the formula. When she came back to New York, she started experimenting; at last she was satisfied that she had duplicated the original and passed the recipe along to us.

Our Mexican cookbooks hold similar recipes, but most of them call for grating fresh coconut. We prefer to take the easy way and use the new flaked coconut, tender and delicate in flavor, that comes in handy 3½-ounce cans — each holding about one cup.

What to serve with the pudding?

Here is how we put it on a menu recently.

FIRST COURSE

To begin, we chose a hearty soup. If you want a Mexican-style soup, make it of beef bones with onions, carrots, turnip and tomatoes; season it with bay leaves, garlic and chili powder. Strain after long simmering and you have caldo or stock. Ladle it over spoonfuls of hot steamed rice in big soup bowls, or add canned chick peas to it.

MAIN COURSE

For main sustenance, we served oven-fried chicken along with hot biscuits and a salad of romaine and orange sections. To prepare the chicken we rolled pieces of a broiler-type bird in biscuit mix seasoned with salt, pepper and paprika. We melted a quarter cup of butter in a shallow baking dish and arranged the chicken in it, skin side down. We baked the chicken in a hot (425 degrees) oven until it was almost tender — about three quarters of an hour. Then we turned the chicken and finished baking it — for another fifteen minutes or so — skin side up. During the last fifteen minutes the chicken was baking, we put a pan of biscuits in the oven.

For the salad, tear the large outside leaves of romaine into small pieces; leave the little inside romaine leaves whole. Peel a couple of oranges so you have white membrane remains; then cut away the puffy sections from the dividing membranes with a small sharp knife. Mix romaine, orange sections and a good simple French dressing together kist before serving.

DESSERT

And so to your ending — the Coconut Pudding. Serve small portions of it, please, because it is very sweet and rich. You might like to offer it with red apples, crunchily and cold, as one of our Mexican recipe sources suggests. And of course bring on lots of hot strong coffee.

MEXICAN COCONUT PUDDING

Ingredients: ¾ cup sugar, 1 tablespoon cornstarch, ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ cup milk, 2 egg yolks, 1½ cups flaked coconut, 4 to 5 drops yellow food coloring.
Method: Mix sugar, cornstarch and salt together thoroughly in a saucepan. Mix in milk gradually, stirring until smooth after each addition. Place over moderate heat and bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Beat egg yolks until thick and ivory colored. Stir coconut mixture gradually into beaten eggs; mix well, adding food coloring. Turn into greased 8-inch heat-resistant glass pie plate. Bake in hot (400 degrees) oven 10 minutes, or until very lightly browned. Serve warm. Makes 6 servings.

PARISIPPANY, N.J. (U)—Note to teachers:
If you are having trouble getting the attention of your charges in their native tongue, try a foreign language.
Miss Myrna Bason, a fourth grade teacher at the Lake Hiawatha School, says her boys and girls snap to it when she speaks French.
With the proper inflection, she points out, "taisez-vous" and "assez-vous" are more effective than "keep quiet" and "sit down."

Smaller Chickens
GRAND RAPIDS (U)—Poultry specialist Edward F. Godfrey says chickens who make breakfast eggs in future years probably will weigh less than four pounds each—not five to seven pounds like the ones today.
Godfrey told a poultry producers meeting that feed will be more efficient and hens will consequently be smaller and able to lay 240 eggs annually.

Dr. Paul White Is Key Man In Eisenhower's Decision

DR. PAUL DUDLEY WHITE: A comfortable chair for the visitor a swivel chair that's "all business" for "Dr. Heart."

By HELEN WEYMOUTH
NEA Special Correspondent
BOSTON — (NEA) — A country doctor's son, whose loves include whales, trees and bicycles, may have the final say on whether President Eisenhower seeks another term.

The key man in Mr. Eisenhower's mid-February decision is Dr. Paul Dudley White of Boston, foremost heart expert in the nation. He is a man so wrapped up in his work that he's spending the first week of February off the California and Mexican coasts—trying to listen to the heart beat of a harpooned whale.

He is an expert so well-known in his field that fellow members of the American Heart Association, which he helped found, call him "Dr. Heart."

It was this thin, graying man who was summoned last Sept. 24 when President Eisenhower was stricken with a heart attack at Denver. It will be this same man, who once thought of being a tree surgeon, who will give the President the checkup for the progress report that probably will be a key factor when the President decides whether to run again.

Who is this man White? For one thing he's a lover of the simple life; a man who uses skim milk on his cereal but adds plenty of sugar. "I like salt, too," he says.

Dr. White is 69 now, but he can still remember back when he rode with his physician father in a buggy as the doctor made his rounds.

He admits those rides through country lanes near Boston helped him decide his life's work. But he still remembers his boyhood love of trees. Big ones line the short lane that leads to his yellow clapboard, 12-room house off Marsh Street in Belmont, and he cares for them all himself.

He also once thought of being a missionary—"partly because mother was interested in church missions."

But over the years — at Roxbury Latin School and later at Harvard College, he turned more and more to medicine.

When he received his degree he went to intern at Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston. "I thought then," he says, "that I would go into pediatrics."

Chance made him turn to heart work. A patient at the hospital gave money for purchasing what—in 1913—was the newest machine in treating heart cases. It was called an electrocardiograph, and White was sent to England to buy one and study its use under Dr. Thomas Lewis.

In time, White surpassed his teacher. His 450 books and articles now include the basic text-book on the use of this machine.

Perhaps one reason Dr. White agreed to give up his pediatrics for heart work was the fact that his 12-year-old sister had died of rheumatic heart disease.

He became head of Massachusetts General Hospital Children's Heart Clinic and Adult Heart Clinic. He became a teacher at Harvard. But through the years he never lost his love of people. He even recalls with a chuckle the time on board ship when he and Dr. Joseph Aub treated Cornelia Otis Skinner for measles.

White married a Smith College graduate — Ina Reid of Boston who had done social work. Like the doctor, she loves to bicycle and take long walks. They have two children — 16-year-old schoolboy Alexander and 20-year-old Penelope, the wife of an air force lieutenant, Robert Nock.

They also have "Honey," who's a dog of a tangled breed; a horse, kittens — and in the living room, twin grand pianos.

He found time along the way to serve in the British Expeditionary Force of World War I—and three years with the American Army. In World War II he was a government expert on heart ailments, and later went with medical missions to Greece, Italy and India.

He has been honored by France and Free Czechoslovakia, was made president of the American Medical Association in 1941, and is known throughout the world as an author, teacher, researcher and specialist. His book, "Heart Disease," first published in 1931, is now going into a fifth edition.

You walk into his sunny office and find him looking at his favorite plants. The floor has a heavy Oriental rug; the visitor's chair is big and soft. But the doctor sits up straight in a swivel chair that looks "all business."

As he goes about the business of examining, he's sure to find a "common ground" with his latest patient.

He loves motion pictures — has reel after reel at home taken when he worked abroad. He has a "sweet tooth" — but thinks those past 30 should beware of fatty foods. He collects ancient medical books — some dating back to the 1400's. He will tell you of his grandchild — Cynthia — or talk of the future of heart research.

He'll even chat about Colonial ancestors. He is a descendant of Joseph Dudley, who was governor of Massachusetts back in 1685. His wife is a descendant of John Alden, whose place in history was assured by the line "Why don't you speak for yourself, John?"

Or he'll chat about his bow ties — he likes them—or his rimless glasses or carefully trimmed and graying mustache.

But he shines best when he talks about his job — the human heart. He tells you what's been accomplished and what research is trying to unfathom now.

As he talks, you notice an odd thing about this doctor. He is the nation's greatest expert on heart disease. He talks of his work with the enthusiasm of a student fresh out of college. And yet his language is simple, direct, non-technical. No medical gobbledegook for the

Britain's Old Autos Appear to Be on Way To Death Warrant

LONDON — A death warrant appears to be on the way for thousands of Britain's "old crocks"—prewar cars still chugging manfully on overcrowded roads.

The government is framing a new law to force owners to submit the jalopies to stringent safety tests. Those that don't get by will be refused a license.

The postwar car shortage and a 50 per cent sales tax have kept new cars out of reach of many people. A pilot testing scheme carried out by the government has shown 97 per cent of pre-1945 vehicles have major faults making them unfit for the road.

Some trade sources have estimated the new law might force two million of the five million

Use of Rotisserie in Kitchen
Does your kitchen boast an electric rotisserie? Then do try roasting a duck on it! You'll find this method of cooking duckling gives wonderfully crisp skin. But make sure you have an extra dripping pan that fits under the heating element of the rotisserie. About a cup of fat will drip out from the duck and the regular tray will have to be emptied of the fat several times during the cooking; here's where the auxiliary pan will come in handy.
